Mr. WADE fully admits the force of Art. XXVIII. of the Treaty in regard to Transit Dues; but he holds that though the Authorities are not justified in imposing further faxes in transitu, and that their doing so ought to be put a stop to, the chief injury to the Trade is not caused by the Transit Dues but by the Lekin taxes. In order to meet this difficulty, he goes on to suggest that it would be desirable that transit passes should continue to be granted at the Foreign Customs, but that the duties should not be collected at the port of issue but at the various barriers. This, he says, the Chinese Authorities would be glad to consent to; and a fair division being paid at each barrier, should be notified by the officer in charge, and should be so fixed that in no case should the total amount of transit dues exceed the 23 per cent stipulated for in the Treaty. A witness advances relates at great length a marvellous story of hair breadth escapes and calm courage receives the thanks of the President, makes his best bow and retires, a hero for evermore the eyes of his friends and family without, perhaps, having been asked one of the hundred appleasant questions with which an English counsel would have tested his evidence. England the browbeating system may be carried too far-at least so say nine out of ten laymen who have had the mistortune of finding themselves in the witness-box, and who indignantly complain that a gentleman can't prosecute a pickpocket without risk of having his own honesty called in question by a thieves' attorney. They might, perhaps, be somewhat reconciled even to this extreme if they saw the mischief produced by the other in France, or, rather, in a French Court-Martial, which, of course, must not be confounded with a civil court. If an English court is the purgatory, the French Court-

SCARBOROUGH: The following romantic story was recently communicated to the Searberough correspondent of the Leeds Moreury, by Detective-Sergeant Brogden, of the Scarborough police force:-Very recently two German ladies were visiting he famous continental water-place of Baden-Badon. They were sisters, 'one being the Baroness D , wife of Baron D , an officer n the Prussian army, and the other was ber lister, a countess in her own right, unmarried. and reputed to be wealthy. While at Baden, they made the acquaintance of a gentleman who introduced himself as the Count de Viliers, and he very speedily succeeded in gaining the effections at least of the Countess. After being but a short time in their charming company, be professed to be in a great hurry to get to London on a business errand, and he proposed that the ladies should follow him as early as practicable, that they might enjoy each other's society in the English metropolis. The ladies were scon afterwards received in London by their adnirer, and after remaining there a short time, the party found their funds getting low. For some reason or other, it appeared to be most convenient that the Baroness should telegraph to her husband, the Baron \mathbf{D} —, for money. She did so, asking for 4,000 francs. As the greatest amount of connubial bliss had not fallen to their lot, the Baron was not unaccustomed to the occasional caprices that now and then caused the temporary absence of his wife. But baving neard that the Countess's lover was notorious w known both to the continental and London police, he determined to be satisfied. He teleraphed to the baroness saving he sent her a heque for 1,000 france, which must suffice until he arrived in London, where he would make one of their party in a few days. The cheque duly arrived, and was cashed. A REMARKABLE STORY. (Correspondence of the Toronto Telegraph.) CAYUGA, August 21st. On Wednesday last, Rev. Nathaniel Wardell Messrs. Orin Wardell, of Toronto, and Daniel Fredenburg, were digging on the farm of the latter centleman, which is on the banks of the Grand River, in the township of Cayuga. When they got to five or six feet below the surface a strange sight met them. Piled in layers, one upon topof the other, sometwo hundredskeletons of human beings nearly perfect-around the neck of each one being a string of beads. There | ON NEW YORK .were also deposited in that this pit a number of axes and skimmers made of atoue. In the On Bombay. These skeletons are those of men of gigantic stature, some of them measuring nine feet. very few of them being less than seven feet. Some of the thigh bones were found to be at Hongkong Bank Shares, Old-64 per cent. least half a foot longer than those at present known, and one of the skulls being examined Hongkong Bank Shares, New-62 per cent completely govered the head of an ordinary person. These skeletons are supposed to belong to those of a race of people anterior to the Indians. Some three years ago the bones of a mastodon were found imbedded in the earth ghastly occupants are now open to the view of any who may wish to make a visit there.

DUNNVILLE, August 22nd. There is not the slightest doubt that the remains of a lost city are on this farm. At various times within the past two years the remains of mud-houses with their chimneys had been found; and there are dezens of pits of a similar kind the place, which has been discovered before hitherto. The remains of a blacksmith's shop, plements, were turned up a few months ago The farm, which consists of one hundred and China Sea, Saigon, and Struits Steamship and fifty acres, has been onliveted for nearly growth of pine, so that it must have there. The skulls of the skeletons are of an about half as large again as are now to be seen. most perfect state of preservation, though they supposed that there is gold or silver in large mineral rods have invariably, when tested, pointed to a certain spot and a few yards from where the last batch of skeletons was found, directly under the apple tree.

Some large shells, supposed to have been used for holding water, which were also found in the pit, were almost petrified. There is no doubt that were there a scheme of exploration travelling merchant. carried on thoroughly the result would be highly interesting. A good deal of excitement exists in the neighborhood, and many visitors | White Beans, 2,000 piculs, at $2.12, by Chancall at the farm daily. The skulls and bones | cheong to Sheik-loong merchant. of the giants are fast disappearing, being taken away by curiosity hunters.. It is the intention of Mr. Fredenburg to cover the nit un verv soon. The pit is ghastly in the extreme. The farm is skirted on the north by the Grand-River. The pit is close to the banks, but marks are put to show where the gold or silver treasure is supposed to be under. From the appearance of the skulls it would seem that the possessors died a violent death, as many of them were broken and diated. The axes are shaped like tomahawks-small, but keen instruments. The beads are all of stone, and of al sizes and shapes. The pipes are not unlike in shape the cutty pipes, and several of them are engraved with dogs' Leads. They have not Plost their virtue for smoking. Some people profess to believe that the locality of Fredenburg farm was formerly an Indian burial place, but the enormous stature of the skeletons, and the fact that pine trees of centuries' growth covered the spot, go far to disprove this idea.

A New Jersey editor has announced the death of his uncle in Australia, leaving him a gold mine and $400,000. His village contemporary professes to regard the matter as a plan ounningly devised to obtain credit for a box of paper collars and a straw bat.

The Atheneum states that an extensive work on the History of Mary Stuart of Scotland, by Professor Petit, of Beauvais, is nearly ready for publication. The professor has been engaged upon it for the last ten years, and has spared neither money nor labour in order to lay before the world such an accumulation of evidence relative to the unfortunate Queen of Scots as has never yet been made public. The work is intended by the author to prove a complete instification of the Queen from the charges brought against her.
